Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed on 03/31/05 has been entered. Claims 1-11 are still pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1, 3, 4-6, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith et al (US 6,879,962 B1) in view of Tetsuya (JP 04335460 A).

As per claims 1-11, Smith discloses a concentrated physical distribution management method to be used when consigned cargo is delivered to a destination, wherein said method is processed to be electronic information capable of being mutually communicated by means of communication network lines (see fig. 3), said method comprising: a shipping instruction processing step of instructing delivery of the consigned cargo to the destination collectively including a physical distribution trader by accessing a specific site (col. 19, lines 1-28); a cargo tracking processing step of indicating a delivery status of the cargo of the cargo, whereby the cargo can be managed concentratedly (col. 18, lines 25-44). Smith does not disclose a physical distribution expense calculation processing step of calculating physical distribution expenses necessarily for delivery of the cargo to the destination (page 10, [0105], lines 1-22) but Tetsuya discloses a controller arithmetic means for calculating a delivery charge of a cargo or a delivery zone number of a delivery destination of the cargo (see abs.).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize the arithmetic means for calculating the delivery charge as taught by Tetsuya into the system of Smith because it would allow customers to find out about the delivery cost of their cargo and to select a company with the lowest cost to carry said cargo to their destination.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed on 03/31/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
